(A)

There is a saying "You are what you eat". It does not mean that if you eat carrots then you'll be a carrot or you'll be an apple if you eat apples. It means if you want to be healthy, you need to eat healthy food.

Then, what is a healthy diet?

Scientists(科学家) have done a lot of researches(研究) to find out the answer, and now they have got some. They say that our meals should include(包含) foods from each of the four groups: grains(谷物), vegetables, fruit, milk products and meat. They also say that we should eat a lot of grains. But vegetables and fruit are also very important to our health. So we should eat plenty of vegetables and fruit every day. And we should eat a little fat and sugar. If we eat too much of them, then we will have a bad diet.

Now do you think your diet is healthy enough? If it isn't, what are you waiting for? You should change your diet into a healthy one from now!

True or false(判断下列句子是否符合短文内容, 符合的用 T 表示, 不符合的用 F 表示, 共 6 分)

- ( ) 4.It is important for us to eat a lot of grains.
- ( ) 5.If you eat a little fat and sugar every day, you will be healthy.
- ( ) 6.You should change your diet into a healthy one if it isn't healthy enough.

(B)

Most people who work in the office have a boss (老板). Me, too. But my boss is a little unusual. What's unusual about him? Many men have dogs, but few men bring their dogs to the office every day. My boss's dog, Robinson, is big and brown. My boss brings him to work every day. He takes the dog to meetings and he takes the dog to lunch. When there is a telephone call for my boss, I always know if he is in the office. I only look under his desk. If I see something brown and hairy (毛茸茸的) under it, I know my boss is somewhere in the office. If there isn't a dog, I know my boss is out.
